

SEVERAL SUDDEN DEATHS

BRAKEMAN KNOCKED FROM TRAIN AND KILLED.

Littlestown Visitor Walks Out of Window in His Sleep—Fourth of Family Drowned.

Last Wednesday morning Andrew Arnold left this place on his usual run on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad between this place and Harrisburg. His good nature made him a favorite with every one with whom he came in contact and those who saw him last recall his usual good spirits of that day. At Harrisburg the same evening he was ordered out as one of an extra freight crew to take train to Philadelphia and before leaving he remarked he didn't like the trip, a premonition as it were of what was ahead. It was night when train passed through Pottstown and he was hit on the head while on top of a box car by a bridge and was hurled beneath the wheels of his train and instantly killed.

He was not missed for awhile and telegraphing back the body was found and sent back to his home. Mr. Arnold was born at Pine Grove and was about 55 years old and had spent many years of his life in this town and vicinity. He had worked on farms and a number of years ago had taken to railroading and was considered a reliable employee. He married Miss Nora Riggs, daughter of John Riggs, who made her home for many years with Joe Riggs and her grandmother in this place. The body was brought here and funeral took place on Saturday with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

The coroner at Norristown tried to prevent an inquest but it was held by a magistrate and the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death while on duty and advised that tracks be depressed or bridge elevated, for although bridge was protected by hanging ropes, yet they were dangerously low and had frequently caused such accidents. It appeared in evidence that on new class of box cars it is necessary for brakemen to lie flat to clear the bridges. It also appeared that jaw was shattered, skull crushed and body cut in two. He leaves besides wife a daughter about six years old.

Wm. A. Guthrie.

Wm. A. Guthrie, a lightning rod agent and a frequent visitor to Littlestown, was a guest at the Hotel Huff in that town on last Tuesday night. It was about 12 o'clock when he retired to room on third floor. About a half hour later Mrs. Huff on second floor heard him say "All right, just wait a minute and I'll be there," and he is supposed to have been talking and walking in his sleep. She heard a fall to the ground shortly afterwards. She aroused her husband and Guthrie was found lying in yard, having fallen a distance of 30 feet. Dr. H. E. Gettler being summoned found both legs fractured, nose broken and thought man was internally injured. He was sent Wednesday morning to York Hospital. He was delirious from time he entered hospital until his death in the afternoon of same day. His relatives being notified the body was taken to his home in Preston county, W. Va., on Saturday.

Florence Small.

Florence Small, aged 11 years and 20 days, daughter of Jeremiah and Lydia Small of Oxford township was drowned July 2 in an old stone quarry near her home filled with water ten to twelve feet deep. She is the fourth member of her family to be drowned. About 14 years ago a child aged one and one half years was drowned in a well on premises. About three years ago a brother aged 4 years fell into this death trap quarry and his sister Irene aged 14 years rushed in after him to render aid and both were drowned. Florence on day indicated had been out near quarry with her mother picking raspberries. She had filled her pail, taken them to house and went back to field and became separated from her mother. When latter returned to house and found her daughter was not there she became uneasy and a search was begun and searchers found pail near quarry where grew a well stocked berry bush and a trail of spilt berries led to water's edge. Body was soon recovered but life was extinct. Funeral took place on Monday afternoon of last week with interment in Catholic Cemetery at New Oxford, and the parents have the deepest sympathy of their neighbors and friends over the tragedy, which is the fourth of the kind to enter this home.

Mrs. Charles Sell.

The death of Mrs. Alveta Sell, wife of Charles Sell of Littlestown, was sudden and shocked the community in which she lived and was known. She had been in her usual health during the Fourth and ate a hearty meal of new potatoes and cold slaw and in the evening started with her children to view the fire works and balloon ascensions in another part of the town. She was suddenly seized with severe cramps of the stomach and with effort reached home of her father-in-law, Daniel Sell. Dr. E. K. Foreman and husband were sent for. The physician was unable to control the paroxysms of pain and patient soon entered a condition of nervous collapse and the heart's action became weak and though she seemed to rest easier she slowly grew weaker until death came at 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The cause of death was said to be acute gastralgia brought on by what she had eaten. Funeral on last Saturday, Rev. F. S. Lindaman conducting services with interment at Christ Church graveyard. Deceased was a daughter of ex-County Commissioner Abram G. Keagy and wife and leaves beside her husband four young children and is survived by her parents, three brothers and two sisters. John Keagy of Mount Pleasant township, Samuel Keagy of Union township, Dr. Charles Keagy of Pleasant Hill, York county, Mrs. Robert H. Wilson and Miss Nora Keagy of Littlestown. Her age was 37 years, 6 months and 26 days.

She was born on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, and died on the Fourth of July, aged 77 years, 4 months and 12 days. She was the daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Bender and was highly respected. The funeral on Friday was conducted by Rev. S. A. Diehl. She is survived by three brothers and two sisters, Jacob and John Bender of Hanover, Isaac Bender of Altoona, Miss Hannah Eliza Bender and Mrs. Sarah Wright of Bendersville.

The deceased was two days less than 65 years of age and his funeral to-day takes place the day after his birthday anniversary. Mr. Young was born in Columbus, Ohio. He taught school in this county at one time, met Miss Annie Swisher, daughter of the late Jacob Swisher and made her his wife. For many years he lived in Washington having a government position. For the past twenty years Mr. Young and family have been living on his farm near Round Top until removing to town about a year ago. He leaves besides his widow four children, James J. Young, attorney, Mechanicsburg; Harry F. Young of Harrisburg; Charles M. Young, the artist of Philadelphia who is abroad at the present time and Mrs. Bessie Holtzworth.

Mrs. David A. Frommeyer.

Mrs. Mary Ann Frommeyer, wife of D. A. Frommeyer of Hanover, died on July 4th. About six weeks ago she came on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Frommeyer of near town and was taken sick with heart disease. Recovering somewhat she was removed to her home in Hanover, where she became worse and was bedfast for six weeks. She was aged 54 years. The funeral was held on last Thursday morning, Rev. Father Huber celebrating a solemn mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Catholic Church and interment in the cemetery of church following. She is survived by husband, a son of the late Henry and Theresa Frommeyer of near Gettysburg, and one daughter, Miss Kathryn Cecelia Frommeyer. D. A. Frommeyer is a brother of Frank Frommeyer of near town and John H. Frommeyer of Bonneauville.

Mrs. Jacob Lookentill.

Mrs. Jacob Lookentill died at her home in Abbottstown June 28 in her 57th year from the results of an attack of pneumonia last spring. Funeral on following Saturday, Rev. S. P. Mauger officiating and interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Abbottstown. She leaves a husband and one daughter, Nettie, seven years old.

Mrs. Rebecca Leas.

Mrs. Fred Kappes.

Sunday morning about 11 o'clock brought the unexpected sad news of the death of Mrs. Carrie Kappes, wife of Fred Kappes at their home on York street. Her health recently had been somewhat frail, but her condition from a complication of diseases had not been considered serious until Sunday morning. She was about 30 years of age and besides her husband leaves two daughters, Marion and Hilda. Dr. Jacob A. Clutz conducted the funeral services at which about 100 of her friends gathered and Miss Ruth Clutz sang. The service was one expressive of the respect in which deceased was held and sympathy for the bereaved family.

Mrs. Samuel Wallace.

Infant Child.

Infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Miller, on Monday, at their home on Washington street, aged about 7 days.

Fiendish Attempt to Wreck Train.

It is to be regretted that it must be recorded that some one in or near this place made a fiendish attempt to wreck a train on Western Maryland railroad and it looks as though the attempt was contemplated against the Penn-Mar Sunday passenger train.

This train had gone through here and up the mountain in the morning. In the regular course of things this same train would be the next to pass down over the road. At the second cut west of town a tie was placed on the track. The tie was lying with others about 100 yards from cut and the only conclusion is that it was deliberately carried and placed on the rail. On either up or down grade it would prove deceptive at point to discover. It was placed there between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m.

About latter hour an extra freight came down the road. Something had gone wrong on the main line and two extra freights were sent down through here. The first one struck the tie and marvelous as it may seem carried it 100 feet without derailing either engine or cars and the awful wreck planned was prevented.

Minute Men Will Be Here.

A letter has been received by Dr. Henry Stewart, from Lieut. Col. E. R. Campbell in command of the 1st Regiment Minutemen of Boston, accepting the invitation of the local committee to be here at the camp of the Sons of Veterans beginning September 17. It is expected they will go into the camp that will be established. Four companies or a battalion of the Minutemen will be here. This is one of the oldest military organizations in Boston and this country.

Medical Association Meet.

The Adams Co. Medical Association met on Monday afternoon in court room in court house. About a dozen physicians were present, the paper expected to be read did not put in appearance and prevailing diseases were discussed which with usual routine made up work of the afternoon. The next meeting will be in October.

TOWN FATHERS IN SESSION

SEWER BID OF FEHR & O'ROURKE ACCEPTED.

Peanut Litter Makes Trouble—Three New Fire Plugs Ordered—Citizens' Trust Co. Building.

The Town Fathers were a trifle slow in getting together Tuesday evening of last week but all of them put in appearance. E. E. Slaybaugh was made secretary pro tem in absence of Secretary J. Frank Wisotzkey. Minutes were read and approved.

The burgess made report of licenses collected.

June hack permits	$127 50
Automobile license	5 00
Pop corn peddler	5 00
Building permit	50
	$137 50

The burgess verbally reported that complaints had been made to him by officials of the First National Bank of the litter on their pavement every morning of peanut shells and the like and that he had notified M. C. Fox to sweep and clean up pavement around his stand every morning. A letter addressed to the Town Council from M. C. Fox was read saying, "I have received due notice from the burgess to the effect that unless I clean the First National Bank pavement every night before closing, you will take action on the matter at once, and knowing as I do from what source this complaint originated, I wish to say in my own behalf that I cannot feel that I am under any obligation to the bank officials and consider it an imposition on the part of them, or anyone else, to ask me to do this, since I am not responsible for the dirt which accumulates on that corner even though I do sell peanuts, for it is indeed a rare thing for any of our patrons to sit on the bank sill and eat peanuts. However, I will say this much, that hereafter we will keep a close look-out and if we see a pack of our peanuts eaten and the shells let lay we will remove same, but if they have been purchased elsewhere, I will never remove them, and as for cleaning the entire pavement I will not do so. I will keep my share clean and no more." After a short discussion the Council directed burgess to notify Mr. Fox if he does not keep clean the pavement he will be asked to remove his stand.

Dr. Stewart on behalf of the Health Board asked for balance of year's appropriation, $30, and an additional one of $250 which was granted.

Councilman Wisotzkey reported that Highway Committee had placed a new crossing at Central Hotel, and the $15 contributed by residents of neighborhood as previously published was handed over to treasurer.

Mr. Wisotzkey asked for an expression as to what Highway Committee should do with Middle street extended. A motion prevailed that hill in front of W. E. Ziegler house be dug down and dumped into hollow between it and house of A. Danner Buehler. It was also declared that extra ground from sewer digging was to go on same street.

It was asked whether anything had been done toward having street repaired between trolley tracks and along side of same and Highway Committee said Mr. Turner had asked to buy stone of borough for purpose but was told there was none to spare. A motion carried that Mr. Turner be notified that if streets are not repaired by July 15, the borough will make the repairs and hand the bill to Transit Company.

The Property Committee reported that fire plugs were needed on York pike near dwelling of Daniel Shealer, on West Middle street and on Steinwehr avenue and same committee was instructed to buy three plugs.

It was asked what Council proposed to do about pavements ordered some time ago to be made, as time given had expired. Wm. H. Tipton was anxious to know whether pavements would be made in front of colored graveyard and adjoining lot on York pike. Highway Committee was instructed to notify parties to make pavement or the committee would go ahead and make same and collect bill from lot owners.

Bridge over sewer in Oyler lime kiln yard was reported to be out of order. It was a sewer built and kept in repair by town and Highway Committee was instructed to make necessary repairs.

The sewer bids were then discussed. Several of the bidders were present. There seemed to be a little opposition from some quarters to giving contract to lowest bidder at once. It was admitted on all sides that the bid was very low, it was believed by some that parties would not complete bid and would rather forfeit $1,000. The only element of uncertainty about the contract is the quantity of rock to be removed. The bid is at $2 a square yard and this bid was an average one on all made. A large quantity of rock would add to the lowest bid of $26,488.90. The Councilmen were of the opinion that the bid of Fehr & O'Rourke was such an exceptional one for the borough that no risk ought to be taken to lose it, but that matters should be expedited to have them give the $10,000 bond to complete sewer at their bid and a motion that the bid of Fehr & O'Rourke be accepted and contract awarded them carried and direction was given that they be notified to complete contract by giving bond. A motion carried that checks accompanying all bids but Fehr & O'Rourke's be returned.

Treasurer Harry Oyler reported:

Balance at last report	$ 390 97
Western Union and Bell Telephone	39 07
Burgess	132 50
Wm. H. Frock, tax	163 14
Borrowed of bank	472 65
	$1135 33
Paid out on orders	1049 14
Balance	$ 86 19

A motion prevailed to borrow of bank $525 to pay all bills except light and water.

The following pay roll and bills were ordered to be paid:

Wm. Herman, Supt.	25 00
Sam'l Mencher, labor	16 92
Geo. Degroft	6 25
H. Gonker	11 62
J. T. Obier	1 25
L. Lentz	3 75
M. Tate, cobbling	14 50
J. Zhea	6 00
L. Tipton, horse and cart	19 00
A. Butt	7 00
F. Deardorf, hauling	6 00
E. Mencher	2 00
R. Shriver	2 00
J. Althoff	3 00
Charles Kappes, policeman	30 00
Park Noel	30 00
Joseph Carver, janitor	11 00
W. M. R. R. freight	25
Jacob Mundorf, crossing	4 00
C. W. Ziegler & Co.	34 53
S. D. Ridinger, cobbling	2 40
H. F. Foller	1 00
Star & Sentinel, printing	25 25
Gas Co.	21 22

The water bill of $490 and electric light bill of $232.39 went over, the first so Councilmen could see the contract before payment was made and the latter because car tax had not been adjusted.

Meeting Next Night.

Wednesday evening Council held a meeting to consider Citizens' Trust Co. building, in view of the talk about front of building being 17 1/2 inches over building line. The adjoining lot owners, H. C. Sanders and Huber's Drug Store, made no complaints but were in favor of building as planned.

Hon. G. J. Beuner, Hon. D. E. McPherson, Chas. S. Duncan and John D. Keith spoke in support of building as complying with all ordinances. One ordinance provides for a porch four feet on pavement and a decision was read supporting position that the brown stone columns flanking the door way was in architecture a portico, porch or entrance way and was well within the meaning of ordinance. After audience upon request had retired the Council discussed the matter and resolved that the projection of the bank building was within the ordinances.

Council adjourned to evening of July 12 to receive bond of Fehr & O'Rourke for sewer contract.

Rohrbaugh Fire.

The fire of barn of George Rohrbaugh briefly noted last week took place in the late afternoon of July 4. Mr. Rohrbaugh had been busy during the day hauling in wheat and had run a wagon load into barn when storm broke. Several who witnessed it saw the bolt descend and almost instantly a column of smoke ascended straight upward, there being little wind at the time. Mr. Rohrbaugh immediately ran the loaded wagon out of the barn and got out all the stock but nothing could be done to save barn as it was a mass of flames in a few moments. Mr. Rohrbaugh lost in addition his hay crop in barn and four loads of wheat and farming machinery. The barn was insured in the Adams County Co. and the contents in the Mammatus Co.

Fourth of July.

The Fourth passed off here without any serious accidents, a few boys being burnt by powder. A number of our people passed the day picnicking. Reports from 150 of the principal cities of the United States give the number of victims from fire crackers, fire arms and gunpowder on the Fourth as 35 killed and 1677 injured. Thus the American People continue to celebrate their Independence Day with tragedy.

OLD TELEPHONE SYSTEM

RIPPED TO PIECES IN PETITION TO DIRECTOTS.

Gettysburg Has Suffered Long Enough and is Entitled to a Complete New System.

A petition was circulated in Gettysburg last week and largely signed and sent to the meeting of the Board of Directors of the United Telephone and Telegraph Co. This petition in a kind and business-like way simply stated the facts of the very unsatisfactory telephone condition in this place at present. It stated that "the present plant was established in 1897 and the system has now become antiquated and worn out and yet remains unimproved. The switch board lines and phones are old, defective and give very unsatisfactory service. It is the exception when holding a telephone conversation where one can both hear and make oneself heard distinctly. We believe the local operators and linemen do all they can to make the service satisfactory but the material conditions are such that this is impossible. We therefore earnestly and as we believe justly and in the interests both of the Co. and of your subscribers urge you to make such immediate and modern improvements as will remedy the defects above indicated and give us an up-to-date satisfactory telephone service."

The town has been blameyed with big things to be done and big money spent and not a cent has been spent here and nothing done. The Town Council gave an underground franchise and it was hinted that improvements were sure to come but meanwhile the town has suffered with an old system ready for the junk pile. Temptations to kick have been frequent but to do it locally would only have added to burdens of local operators and linemen who were not responsible. It is to be hoped that the Board of directors will give us what we are entitled to—a complete new system.

School Board Meets.

The School Board of Gettysburg met in regular session on Thursday evening of last week.

Charles Little was re-elected janitor of Meade High School building for the ensuing year.

The board decided upon certain purchases of book supplies. They also contracted for the coal for the school buildings in the town for next winter, dividing up the amount needed among all the coal dealers of town.

Alterations were ordered in school building on High street by which two of the rooms will be thrown together. That building has been materially altered in recent years to accommodate the large classes so that instead of eight rooms there will be but five when present changes are completed.

A Bad One.

A colored fellow named Brown from Frederick arrived in town last week but soon received his walking papers. A bridge was missing from stable of J. Emory Bair, a chamois skin from another stable and when he was tackled he produced a different skin. Owners of property did not prosecute, so Policeman Park Noel escorted him to train and told him to get and if he ever returned he would prosecute him and the fellow got out.

Went Through Big Explosion.

G. K. Miller fifty-eight years old of Idaville this county is alive to tell how he went through the frightful explosion of powder and dynamite at New Cumberland across the river from Harrisburg Sun. A gang of workmen were making ready for a "big shot" and were "tamping" down a charge. While so engaged 250 lbs. of dynamite were unloaded. There was a premature explosion, powder and dynamite going off, eight men were blown to pieces and two others injured. Mr. Miller was sitting at the door of the shack where the men bunk, 200 feet from the blast and was blown twenty-five feet and while bruised about body is said not to be seriously injured.

Teams in Collision.

Two young men driving from McSherrytown to New Oxford one night last week collided with a team occupied by a gentleman and two ladies. The teams came together in such a way that both vehicles were upset, throwing occupants to the ground. The night was very dark and while no one was seriously hurt vehicles were damaged.

Mrs. George J. Steese, of 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humors daily made by Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, after physicians, and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was eaten away, her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of soap and box of ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body was as clear as a new-born babe's. I could not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

BEAUTIES OF VALLEY

Buchanan Valley, July 6.—After two weeks sojourn in the valley in the South mountain at the home of Jacob Cole, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz and little Dorothy left for York City.

Mr. Schwartz is one of nature's bobblers and a lover of nature and speaks in the highest terms of praise of the valley, of its beauty and good air. He was loathe to leave such a quiet and invigorating home among the hills.

The may crop is reported quite light in this section.

Mrs. Edward McGeary has returned to her home after spending two weeks with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Shepard.

The American Girl.*WHAT MAKES HER POPULAR.

The American girl is admired and liked at home and abroad because she is the happiest, usually the healthiest and friendliest of girls. She is fond of life and is alive to everything beautiful and good in existence. Mrs. Langtry has said that the American woman has little to learn from her English sisters.

Dr. Pierce, the specialist in women's diseases of Buffalo, N. Y., advises simple exercises for women, preferably in the outdoor air. But many women are confined to the house and their household duties or their business confines them to poorly ventilated rooms.

If a woman suffers from a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, she naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the woman's organs. In 25 per cent of cases the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Backed up by over a century of a remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

The health of the valley is exceedingly good this summer.

TOE HAD TO BE AMPUTATEDGermany Twp., July 7.—About two weeks ago Albert Powers, a carpenter working on the new barn of J. A. Fisher, had the misfortune to have one of his toes smashed by a block of timber falling on it, blood poison setting in and a few days ago the toe was amputated. Mr. Powers is in a critical condition.

Grain cutting is about finished. One Sunday recently, while several children of Mr. Deholl, residing on the Fisher farm, were out in the field in search of wild strawberries, one of the little girls was almost frightened out of her senses when she discovered a large snake coiled about her feet.

Screaming she ran home and told her father who with her older brother went in search of his snakeship: in the meantime several boys from the neighborhood gathered. After considerable search they at last saw the snake stretched full length on the fence, it being an old worm fence, the snake's head at a corner and the tail midway on the rail of the second panel. This would make the snake's length about 16 feet. They did not kill it. The foregoing was told your correspondent by a gentleman of unquestioned veracity, as having been related to him by an eye witness. C. N.

The Biggest Sign in New York is at Twenty-third street and Fourth Avenue.

Does anybody know the size of the biggest sign in New York? It's at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fourth Avenue and is 175 feet long. It is the sign of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency.

On inquiry, it turned out that the size of the sign was radically an accident. Moving from the old Times building to new offices at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fourth Avenue, an order was given for a sign.

"How big a sign do you want?" was the signmaker's query. "Bigger than the old one," he was told. "The full length of the office front." "You'll have the biggest sign in New York," he replied. "A sign 175 feet long."

Even this measurement of frontage can convey no adequate idea of the office space behind it. 13,000 square feet upon one floor, and every foot of space a business necessity.

It has taken forty years of steady growth for the business of the J. Walter Thompson Company to reach its present prestige and prominence, when it counts over 500 active customers as its clients, and among them many whose names are known to every reader in the land—the representative advertisers of the country.

There may be some yet who doubt if advertising pays, but there can be no doubt that advertising pays if Thompson does it. The best proof of this is that every step of the growth of the J. Walter Thompson Agency has depended on the profit made for customers by the Thompson plan of publicity. So that the big advertising sign of the big advertising business points a moral to advertisers. Advertising pays when Thompson does it. "From the New York Evening Sun."

A Little Immigration Tragedy.

The story is one of the many of almost daily occurrences when the great ocean greyhounds load their passengers for New York, and the government officers must pass upon questions whether to allow them to sail.

"But you cannot go I tell you. It is impossible!" The agent almost shouted, but Francesco did not seem to understand.

The emigrants, in line were moving slowly toward the windows where the passage tickets were to be secured, but Francesco had been stopped by an official.

"I tell you that you cannot go, the company takes no cripples: step out, you are delaying things." The officer fairly dragged Francesco from his place in the line. Concetta, always at his elbow, slipped out also. Then were cries of astonishment, rage and sympathy, but the crowd pressed from behind and the space closed quickly.

Francesco struggled and shouted like a good Italian. "Let me alone! I will go! I have the money! Not go! "Che diavolo! I will go, I say!"

A second officer stepped forward. He was older and he spoke kindly. "It is not possible, my poor fellow; they should have told you. You have lost a leg and your hand is crippled. If we were to let you go aboard it would do no good; you would have all the long voyage for nothing; they would send you back from New York by the next ship."

"But Carlo told me that I could go; I can earn money; I shall sing in the streets: in Nuova York all are rich; they shower soldi. It is for that I go to Nuova York—because there are many, many rich signori. Carlo has told me that. It will be better than Buonaria. Dio mio! Dio mio! But I must go!"

"Povero ragazzo, poor boy!" "Che peccato!" "They will not let him go!" The exclamations of sympathy went up and down the line. A woman sobbed, and children cried out in fear of they knew not what. The older officer drew Francesco away from the crowd and explained to him his hopeless case. His statement was short, but not unkind.

"I am sorry," he said, "but there is nothing else to do. Have patience. Go home; you will find work: the city may help you. Addio!" and he walked away swiftly. There were thirteen hundred emigrants to be inspected before sundown and the officer had not time for protracted sympathy. From "The Fate of Francesco," by Sophia Jewett, in the July Scribner's.

Why, when buying a book, are we influenced by the author's name? Why, by an artist's, if we purchase a picture?

Why do wise buyers insist upon having a reliable name on nearly everything they purchase?

It is because the name attached is the safeguard of the buyer—a protection against the palming off of inferior articles.

This "name guarantee" we all look for in the most important things we buy, and what can be more important than our food?

Everybody knows that all intelligent house-keepers are very particular about the laying of things to eat and drink, and nobody realizes it more than the up-to-date grocer, who caters to the wants of his customers.

For instance, every real grocer knows the reason for the universal popularity of Lion Coffee, the leader of all package coffees. He knows that its uniform purity and high quality have made it welcome in millions of American homes for over a quarter of a century.

Realizing this, he cannot but hand it out cheerfully when asked for it. He knows that the people accept the package as a guarantee of its contents.

Yet there may be a few grocers left who do not recognize that the buyer—not the seller—has the right of choice and they may want to sell their loose coffee who knows what it is, or where it came from? Instead of Lion Coffee, which the customer asks for, and the merits of which both know.

In such cases the wisest advice is: "Change your dealer."

"ROCK OF AGES"

Writing of the famous hymn "Rock of Ages" in the July Delicatore, Allan Sutherland says, "When the hymn was written is not known, but we may be sure that it was nothing less than the voice of the Almighty that inspired the author to write words of such soul-stirring power. The hymn first appeared, in an unfinished form, in the Gospel Magazine of October, 1778, and more fully the succeeding year in the March number of the same periodical. This grand Christian song has had an enormous influence for good on humanity, and has been a favorite with many great persons. When Prince Albert, the husband of Queen Victoria, lay dying in Windsor Castle, almost his last words were, 'I have had wealth, power and fame, but it these were all that I had had, what would I have now?' And then he was heard repeating softly and reverently, 'Rock of Ages, cleft for me. Let me hide myself in Thee.' Gladstone translated it into Italian, Greek and Latin, but not all translations have been as happy as his. A missionary in India writes that he employed a Hindu scholar to assist him in translating 'Rock of Ages' into the vernacular. His surprise may be imagined when he read, as the result of the effort of the learned Oriental, the first two lines.

"Very old stone, split for my benefit, Let me get under one of your fragments."

HE FOUGHT CONFEDERATES FROM CLUMP OF TREES AT BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

Forty-two Years Later Received a Loving Cup from Confederates at a Reunion.

Colonel Andrew Cowan served as chairman of the entertainment committee at the recent Confederate Reunion at Louisville, Ky. He entered into the reception of the Southern soldiers with as strong a feeling of pleasure as did any person in that city, and contributed in every way possible to their pleasure.

Colonel Audred Cowan has a number of friends in Gettysburg, who have a lively interest in everything that concerns the man, who at the Battle of Gettysburg was Captain Cowan of the First Independent Battery, New York State Volunteers. He had a thrilling experience with his battery at the Clump of Trees, in 2nd day's fight. In his own words:

"About noon the rebels suddenly opened a heavy artillery fire on our line. The shells, passing over our line, struck with much accuracy in and about the spot where I was parked and my horses were suffering when I received orders to move up my battery as quickly as possible.

"I advanced at a brisk trot, leaving my caissons in rear, came into position with General Doubleday's division, and opened fire on the enemy's batteries in my front, firing slowly and with much accuracy. The enemy had excellent range of my position. I held this position for over an hour, and then received orders to move to the crest farther to my right, with General Webb's brigade, as the enemy was advancing. I moved up at a gallop, and came into position, several other batteries being on my right and left. The rebel skirmishers had just commenced firing and their second line was advancing from the woods. The artillery fire was quite accurate and did much execution: still, the rebel line advanced in a most splendid manner. I commenced firing canister at 200 yards and the effect was greater than I could have anticipated. My last charge—a double header—literally swept the enemy from my front, being fired at less than 20 yards. The infantry in front of five of my pieces and posted behind a slight defense of rails, some 10 yards distant, turned and broke, but rallied, and drawn off to the right of my battery by General Webb in a most gallant manner. It was then I fired my last charge of canister, many of the rebels being over the defenses and within less than 10 yards of my pieces. They broke and fled in confusion. My battery was the only remaining one on this part of the hill."

Yet this man who mowed down Confederates at 20 and 10 yards forty-two years ago was presented last week with a loving cup by the Confederates at the reunion in Louisville, the story is best told in the speech of presentation by General Basil Duke and reply of Col. Cowan, the former saying:

Col. Cowan, a very pleasant duty has been assigned to me. This loving cup is presented you, as the inscription recites, by your Confederate friends of Louisville as a memento of the kindly assistance you rendered them in entertaining their comrades and guests of the late reunion.

It is given as a slight token of their appreciation of the liberal sentiments you have ever evinced, and the substantial aid you have never failed to contribute in every matter, social or benevolent, in which the Confederates of Louisville have been concerned, and because they wish to show, in some conspicuous way, however modest may be the tribute, that they recognize and are grateful for your generous friendship and sympathy.

But it is also intended as a testimonial of respect and admiration from soldiers to a true and gallant soldier from that war, who, proud of the courage and strategy exhibited in the ranks when they served themselves are yet proud to acknowledge the valor and prowess of those who fought against them, and to whom they only regret could have overcome them. Knowing your real military and civil as well as your now as commander of that magnificent artillery, manned by the picked soldiery of the Empire State, you turned the tide of battle at Gettysburg, and I served with distinction on many other fields, and know, and the your best efforts have been constantly devoted to the welfare of our city, we know that, in honoring you, we render just recognition to the best type of the American soldier and to those qualities which we admire most in a gentleman and a fellow citizen.

Whatever else this cup may contain when it has entered your hospitable dwelling, be assured that it is filled to the brim with our affection and regard.

Col. Cowan was perceptibly moved by Gen. Duke's remarks, but he mastered himself and spoke as follows:

Gen. Duke and Gentlemen: I am unable to say anything that would fittingly express my appreciation of your kind words and the gift of this loving cup from Confederate soldiers. Just let me say "Thank you, lads," as a Scotchman who feels more than his tongue can utter.

It was my fortune to serve with the Army of the Potomac throughout the war between the States and all the world knows what that meant. I, a Scotchman from the Rapidan to the Appomattox, with courage that never flinched, a determination that was never broken, a devotion that no sacrifice, no privation, no danger, could chill.

When, at last, we looked on the remnant of that immortal Army at Appomattox, and saw that the end had come, no one could describe our feelings. Grant had left your men their horses, but I tell you they could have shared all we possessed, although most of it was on our backs and under our saddles, for the war left us poor, save for youth and courage. No one among them all got less than kind words and good wishes from the lowest to the biggest in our ranks. Let us remember that to day, and tell the story to your children, for I know it is true.

We came through that great and bloody war with mutual respect. We had both fought for what we believed was right, the right as we saw it, through our environment and breeding. We are not called upon to apologize for our acts, but if we were, your answer and mine would be quick and defiant. Still, no one may doubt that we both stand to-day, united and loyal, under the starry flag of our glorious country—

"O, long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free,
And the home of the brave."

Should the yellow men, or any other men, at home or abroad, assail that flag, they will meet the sharp edge of the sword, and the world will see that the men of the South and of the North, the followers of Lee and of Grant, have transmitted to their children the qualities of patriotism and courage that were tested and strengthened in the crucible of our great Civil War.

Forty years ago I took my discharge from the army, and for thirty-nine years I have lived in Louisville, among gallant men that wore the gray and my comrades of the blue, with ever growing respect and friendship between us. And I say to you that nothing I might ever do could repay the kindness and good will shown to me here by soldiers of both sides.

You had welcomed the Grand Army to Louisville, and we tried to show our appreciation of your hospitality and good will when the United Confederate Veterans met here five years ago. I never had a better time in my life. I was chairman of the same Entertainment Committee this year, and again its members were selected equally from the gray and the blue, and their services were equally enthusiastic. You had a very happy reunion, as everybody knows, and I think that I got more than my share of the pleasure. I cannot imagine why anyone thought of offering me a loving cup in recognition of the services of that committee, or myself, nevertheless the gift and the spirit it represents touch me deeply, so again I say, "Thank you, lads." I hope to see another reunion here, and to have again the pleasure of welcoming your comrades to Louisville.

Now, gentlemen, will you do me the honor of christening this cup, which will be handed down as a memento of one of the happiest occasions of my life.

Healths Drunk.

The cup was then filled with champagne and Col. Cowan first drank to the health and prosperity of all present. He passed it in turn to Judge Burnett, who said his heart was as full of love as the cup was of champagne. He then drank and it was passed from hand to hand, each drinking to the health of Col. Cowan. After this ceremony was over a buffet lunch was served.

Col. Cowan was Captain of the First New York battery, Brevet Major and Brevet Lieutenant Colonel of the United States volunteers. He commanded the artillery brigade of the Sixth corps army of the Potomac from December 16, 1862, to the end of the war, which made him also chief of artillery, and a member of the staff of Gen. H. G. Wright, commanding the Sixth corps. He was in the service continuously from April 16, 1861, until June 23, 1865, when he was mustered out by reason of the close of the war.

A Sustaining Diet.

These are enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by the sunstroke as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

A Delightful Drive.

H. T. Weaver, of the firm of G. W. Weaver & Son, made a delightful drive last week. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Though the date of the next Democratic County Convention has not been fixed, yet the time is at hand for announcements of the names of candidates for the respective offices, as the convention may meet within the next six weeks. We believe it would be wise to establish a party rule or understanding, that every candidate should be announced at least three weeks before a convention meets and that no name shall be presented for any office at any convention except those who have been so announced. Many counties have a rule requiring every candidate to register his name for a certain period before a convention. The announcement would answer every purpose, provided it was understood that no unannounced names would be considered by a convention. The sole object of such a rule or understanding is the good of the party. It gives every candidate notice with whom the contest for nomination must be made, and that is only fair play. Each candidate ought to know and have the right to know exactly what he is up against. Such a condition deprives the defeated ones of excuses of finding fault with the nominated ticket. It would prevent combinations at the last moment with new men, last hour slates by any one or more who would seek to control. Such conditions would have to come out in the open if a convention would only receive nominations of announced candidates. Last hour combinations with new men prove a prolific source of trouble, for a candidate who has worked weeks for the nomination feels he has not been treated right. Democracy should aim to treat all candidates alike and such a condition would mean much good to the party. We suggest that when nominations are called for in the next convention that a motion be made that no names shall be presented except those who have been announced for three weeks. Let every candidate announce at once and let all go to work and let fair play reign so that when the tickets are nominated there will prevail a feeling of entire satisfaction, harmony and wholesome party spirit.

An Army Nurse Visits Field.

Among the visitors to Gettysburg last week was Mrs. A. P. Erving, of Newburgh, N. Y. The lady was an army nurse and had not visited Gettysburg since a few days after the battle, in 1863. Mrs. Erving volunteered as a nurse and was assigned by Governor Curtin to hospital Camp Curtin, near Harrisburg, where she served two years and receives a pension today in recognition of her services.

A few days after the battle she was sent to the Gettysburg battlefield to gather up wounded soldiers for Camp Curtin. Her labors were confined to Wheatfield and Devils Den.

The lady told an interesting story of finding a number of soldier boys in neighborhood of monument of Col. Ellis, with little badges of yellow ribbon and was told they belonged to the Orange Blossom Regiment from New York state. A number of the wounded, and amongst the number men of the Orange Blossoms, were taken to Camp Curtin and nursed back to health.

At the end of the service of Mrs. Erving as nurse of camp Curtin she met and married a New York man and went to live at Newburgh, N. Y. where she met a number of the Orange Blossom boys that had been among the wounded at Gettysburg and the nurse at Camp Curtin.

Mrs. Erving was a native of Harrisburg and has many relatives and friends in Dauphin and Cumberland counties and is thoroughly enjoying her visit to the scene of many years ago.

Prosecution Fails.

Dr. J. P. Brenneman of York was discharged after hearing before Justice Eicholtz last Thursday upon the charge of assault made by Mrs. Elizabeth Dittenhafer of Butler township. The alleged offense prosecutrix said was made long before Sheriff's sale and consisted of putting hand on her shoulder but there was no dispute at time. Dr. Brenneman denied any assault and it was evident the prosecution would never have been thought of if the Dittenhafer's had not been sold out on judgment of Dr. Brenneman.

Fell From Horse and Drowned.

Melvin Leas, 17 years old, son of Wm. G. Leas of East Berlin, was drowned about noon of Monday in Onowago Creek near his home. The boy had taken two of his father's horses to the creek to water and in some accidental way fell into five feet of water. It is possible the horse he was on may have thrown him or that he was overcome by the heat and fell into the water. There was no evidence of a struggle or a call for assistance. The body was recovered in a short time after it became known it was in the creek. Mr. Leas and family have the profound sympathy of friends in this new bereavement that has fallen to their lot.

SIGNATURE EXPERTS

THEY ARE THE REAL SAFEGUARDS
OF A MODERN BANK.

Not Only the Autograph, but the Entire Body, of the Check Is Closely Scrutinized by These Rapid and Almost Infallible Workers.

One of the most trying positions in our business, said a bank official to a writer in London Tit-Bits, is that of signature expert—the man who has to examine daily every draft that comes in through the clearing house and vouch for its genuineness. Our bank, one of the largest in the city, employs six clerks who do nothing all day long but examine checks, and when I tell you that it is no uncommon thing for 10,000 drafts to come in during a single day you will understand that the job is not altogether the sinure it is popularly supposed to be.

These clerks have not only to scrutinize the signatures of both drawer and drawee, but also examine the "filling in," the latter being just as important, perhaps more so from a monetary point of view, as the signatures. As a matter of fact, the commonest forgery with which we have to deal is the "raising" of checks, and a forger of this nature generally chooses a check bearing a genuine signature, but having very little "filling in."

For instance, he knows that it would not be difficult to raise a check from $3 to $3,000, for all he has to do is to erase the word "pounds," insert the word "thousand" and then add the erased word again. I have seen plenty of this kind of work during the time
I have been examining checks.

One of the most impudent pieces of forgery, however, that I ever came across was a check raised from $5 to $500. The forger had evidently relied on colossal impudence carrying him through, for he had simply added a couple of ciphers and then between the words "five" and "pounds" had placed an omission mark and written the word "hundred" above, adding the initials of the drawer of the check just to give the thing a look of careless genuineness.

It was so astounding a piece of cool audacity that we had bets on the check, two of my assistants declaring it to be O. K., while the other three and myself declared it to be a forgery.
Further inquiries, of course, proved that the opinion of the majority was the correct one.

It is marvelous what a vast number of signatures some clerks will carry in their mind's eye, as it were, and thus be able to pass checks by the thousand without once having to refer to the signature books. We had a clerk here a few years ago who was little less than a wonder. He knew perfectly the signatures of at least 5,000 customers and could detect the alteration of a stroke
in any one of them in an instant.

More remarkable still was the fact that he recognized with equal facility
the signatures of those customers whose checks only came in once or twice a year. But he made an art of his work, and I afterward discovered that most of his evenings were spent in studying and learning the signatures of the customers, for he was a wonderful hand at copying writing, and whenever a new signature would come in,
one with which he was not acquainted,
he would at once facsimile it in his pocketbook and by the next morning would be able to recognize it among 10,000.

Signature clerks are not, as a rule,
supposed to make copies of customers'
autographs, but many of them do, and some men are clever enough at the work to even deceive themselves.

Of course, it is understood that when the signature clerks are not examining checks they are studying the autograph books in order to familiarize themselves with the calligraphy of every customer. Each check, you must understand, passes through the hands of each clerk in turn, so that if one should pass a forgery or a "raised" draft it is very unlikely that the entire staff would do so. All these checks, of course, come through the clearing house, and if we should pass a forged draft and not find out our mistake before 3 o'clock in the afternoon our bank would be held responsible. One of the commonest dodges adopted by the modern check forger is to get a customer of some small country bank to introduce him to that institution as a likely depositor. On the recommendation of the friend who is probably quite unaware that the acquaintance he made some few months ago is a "wrecker" until there is no difficulty in accepting their new client's check for $2,000, and the following day when the same customer calls and withdraws $100 to $500, as the case may be, he is politely handed the cash, and then, of course, loses no time in skipping the town. After the bogus customer's check has passed through the clearing house it is returned to the bank on which it has been drawn, and the fraud
is at once discovered.

Another part of a signature clerk's duties is to see that no checks are post-dated, as, of course, no drafts must be paid until they fall due. On occasions
a careless man will postdate a check, but as a rule the mistake is purposely made. This spotting of postdated checks, however, is the easiest part of a signature clerk's work, and it is very seldom that a check so dated escapes him. Then, again, we are often notified that payment on certain checks has been stopped, and the clerks have to be on the lookout for these, and it must be a very careless staff indeed that lets them slip by. We are held responsible for all checks passed after we have received notice to stop payment.

But it is very seldom now, owing to the cleverness of the experts, that any forged checks, "raised" checks, post-

dated checks or stopped checks pass the vigilant eyes of our staff without being detected, but when one does—well, although the signature clerks are not held monetarily responsible for the loss, it means a bad mark against them in the future, and they feel its effects next time promotions or "raises" are being handed out.

Altogether, though the work is interesting and even fascinating in a way, the responsibilities are so great that the effect on the nerves is often very trying at times. One thing we are particularly about, and that is to take no chances. If we have the slightest doubt about the genuineness of a check we at once communicate, either by telegraph, special messenger or telephone,
with the supposed drawer of the check
and in this way turn doubt into certainty. During the last three years not a single wrong check has passed our vigilant optics, and, though I say it,
who should not, I do not believe there is a cleverer set of experts anywhere
than those who compose my staff.

A LINCOLN STORY.

The Sawmill Hand Who Didn't Forget About the Cant Hook.

"The first citizen of Illinois and the greatest of American presidents" is the manner in which Mr. Carr refers to Abraham Lincoln in "The Illinois." He recalls the first time he ever heard Mr.
Lincoln's name. It was at a country hotel, and one of the residents of the town was telling of a "curious young fellow" who had worked in a sawmill, but gave up the job to go into the Black Hawk war.

"He was working for a gentleman named Kirkpatrick, and one day somebody said to Kirkpatrick: 'You ought to get a cant hook for that young fellow to move logs with. It's too bad to make him roll them about without one.'"

"The sawmill tender asked what a cant hook would cost, and they said $1.50. The young fellow said, 'If you give me the dollar and a half I'll go on tackling the logs as I do now with a wooden spike that I make myself.'"

"Done," said the boss, and he didn't need to buy any cant hook.
"But, do you know, that boss was so mean that he beat that poor boy out of that money. He never gave it to him."

"That fellow went on tending sawmill and telling stories and never let on about the cant hook. Presently came the Black Hawk war, and they pitched in and raised a company, and Kirkpatrick set all his pins to be captain, but that young fellow hadn't forgotten about the cant hook, and he just became a candidate for the captain's place himself, and when the company voted he beat old Kirkpatrick four to one. I helped to elect him, and when he got elected he turned to me and said, 'Bill, I've got even on that cant hook.'"

"He is the most curious fellow I ever saw. There never came a man into the neighborhood but he'd find out just the things that man knew best. He never gave the schoolmaster any peace after he found he knew grammar until he'd learned all the grammar the teacher knew. He found a fellow who knew how to measure off land, and sure as you live, this fellow quizzed him and quizzed him until he learned the trade, and then he got some tools and went out himself a-setting section corners and making lines and setting stakes to show people where to put their fences."

"What became of this young man?"
"Well," said Green, "he went and learned law, set up in Springfield and got to congress." But he couldn't get elected for the second term. He's as good a fellow as ever lived," continued Mr. Green, "but he's kind of common-sort of just like everybody else; no better, no worse; just a good feller."

"What's his name?"
"Abe Lincoln," replied Green.

A Postage Stamp Dilemma.
Former President Salomon of Bain
had his troubles with the postage stamps of that disturbed republic. General Salomon objected to his own portrait being placed on the stamps, so a local artist was commissioned to design a female head representing Liberty. But the people mistook this for a portrait of Mrs. Salomon and objected.
They said, "The president would not have his portrait on our stamps, but he put his wife's on instead." Salomon admitted the resemblance, and finally he consented to use his own portrait to adorn the stamps. At about the time the new issue was made Salomon had been deposed by his enemies, who finally decided not to go to the expense of issuing new stamps, but to use the Salomon stamps, affixing them upon down. By this device all concerned were satisfied, and from that time forward all letters bearing the stamps the right way up were said to have been charged double postage on delivery, just as though no postage had been paid.

The First Walking Sticks.
The well born Egyptian carried a staff with his name inscribed in hieroglyphics, but walking sticks, in the general sense of the word, were first used by the gallants of the fifteenth century. Canes are first heard of in the reign of Henry VIII., probably introduced to Europe after the discovery of America.

Walking sticks were adopted by the effeminate Henry II. of France about the middle of the sixteenth century.
These French sticks, with a ribbon and tassel to pass over the wrist, were, however, not used by gentlemen of fashion in England until 1655.

ward they were crowned with a round

meg or ginger and sometimes sugar candy for the asthmatic or a sore of

CAPITULATION

(Copyright, 1916, by Richard B. Shelton.)
When the maid opened the door in response to Hollander's tug at the bell
he walked into the little consultation room and enquired himself comfortably in a chair near the window.

"Tell Dr. Allen I'd like to see her at once, if you will," he said pleasantly.
"No, never mind the name; just a patient."

As the maid withdrew Hollander glanced about the room. Everywhere were medical books and technical magazine. A grinning skull and a yellowed femur reposed on the mantelpiece and on a neighboring table was a sealed jar containing a human brain.
Hollander glanced at the jar. He was loath to associate Cecilia Allen with these things. The idea of women invading the professions, especially such women as Cecilia, was extremely distasteful to his mind. He rose and, crossing the room, stood before a framed diploma, reading its Latin phrases, which announced with all the ponderous dignity of steel engraving and crinkled parchment that Cecilia Madison Allen was a full fledged M. D.

Standing thus, with his back to the door, he did not see Cecilia enter the room.
"Good afternoon," she said in her best professional manner.
Hollander turned.
"Hello, Cecilia," he said, with cheerful informality.

"Oh, it's only you," she said.
"Well," he said in challenge, "can't I have troubles as well as any one else?
Haven't I as much right as the next
man to summon medical aid?"

Cecilia regarded him doubtfully.
"Did you really come for medical advice?" she asked.

"I really did," he asserted gravely.
"Can't sleep. Worry all the time.
Lost my good nature and feel broken up generally."

"Indigestion," she declared. "Aren't you smoking too much?"

"Your diagnosis is all wrong," said
he. "The trouble is with my heart."

"Indeed?" she said, frowning slightly.
"Even so," he affirmed. "And, what is more, it's a bad case."

Cecilia's frown deepened.
"You'd better consult a specialist,"
she advised.

"You're the only one who would understand the case," he said. "Do you suppose I want to go to a specialist
and tell him I'm troubled with an obstinate case of unrequited affection?"

"So that's it," she said wearily.
"Yes, that's it," he returned. "I know of only two methods of treatment—marriage or cold poison."

"I don't approve of either," she said.
"I don't fancy the cold poison myself," he admitted.

"You didn't come here to propose again, did you?" she asked coldly.

"I came here to ask you honestly if you're satisfied with this sort of thing;
if you really and truly are making a success of it?" said he.

Cecilia glared at him.
"You're very brave," she said sardonically.

"I know it," said he, "but with all my nonsense I'm in earnest for once.
I want to be sure, above all things, that you are happy and contented. If your profession is more than anything else in the world to you, I want to make the biggest kind of a success of
it. That is why I came," he ended quietly.

Cecilia toyed with a paperweight,
but said nothing.
"I've waited patiently and hoped impatiently," he went on, "but now I'm becoming convinced you really mean what you say about your lifework. I want to satisfy myself today that you're thoroughly sincere, and if you are I won't trouble you further. I'll take myself off and mope it out alone."

"My profession means very much to me," she mused thoughtfully.
"More than anything else in the world?" he asked eagerly.

"More than—than almost anything else," she said.

"More than anything?" he persisted.
"Does it mean more than a home—such a home as I can give you?"

At that juncture the bell jangled, and the maid tapped on the door.
"Some one to see you, Dr. Allen," she said.

Cecilia excused herself and took her caller into the little office at the rear of the consultation room. After a time she came back. "For once was red, and her face seemed to glow with something beautiful."

"Told him so, didn't she?" Hollander laughed.

"Told me so," she said shortly.
"That's his ailment?" Hollander inquired.

"Chronic epilepsy," said she. "It was the real collector."
Hollander turned to her quickly.
"Told her, didn't he?" he said, "you don't mean?"

She smiled mischievously.
"I've had just one patient—and that a charity patient—since I've been here," she confessed. "I'm strapped—broke—insolvent," she ended tragically.
"Is the profession worth all this struggling?" said Hollander.

"No," she said hotly, "it isn't. I'm tired of it all, and, tell I want the home—if I'm not too late in applying."

Hollander caught her in his arms.
"I'll give you a life job curing that heart trouble," he declared jubilantly.

CASPER JOHNSON

Perhaps.
Some men and all boys seem to think that a slit fence is made to rattle a stick on. The music of the stick as it merrily trips from slit to slit is very sweet to the ear of the owner of the fence, especially when the fence is newly painted.—Boston Transcript.

ONE DOLLAR SAVED REPRESENTS TEN DOLLARS EARNED.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale at Huber's drug store.

WILLIS MYERS, of near York Springs, sold a calf last week which at 6 weeks weighed 214 lbs.

GOOD FOR STOMACH TROUBLE AND CONSTIPATION. — "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done me a great deal of good," says C. Towns, of Rai Point, Ontario, Canada. "Being a mild physic the after effects are not unpleasant, and I can recommend them to all who suffer from stomach disorder." For sale by J. H. Huber.

THE mason work on new school house of Fairfield is finished and brick work has commenced.

HIVES are a terrible torment to little folks, and to some older ones. Easily cured. Doan's Ointment never fails. Instant relief, permanent cure. At any drug store, 50 cents.

FRANK GERHART has added a machine shed to buildings on his Mount-pleasant township farm.

WHEN you want a pleasant laxative that is easy to take and certain to act, use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by J. H. Huber.

MRS. ISAAC SLAUBACH of Mount-pleasant township has a cactus plant which has 36 flowers at present time.

BEST HER DOUBT. — "I knew no one for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get. I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." A Friend's Advice.

Writing from Brushton, N. Y., Mr. Fred Brown says: "I was troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia for about two years and could get no relief. I was advised by a friend to try Baxter's Mandrake Bitters, which I did, and before I had taken half a bottle I began to feel benefited. I am now enjoying the best of health and owe my thanks for it to Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. As a blood purifier, I think there is nothing better.
